FACTSHEET

IYDU vs GBP Class 2020-2023

GBP Dividend Reinvestment B Shares

In this chart we compare the fund to the Stoxx 600 and the BI Global Oil Majors index, against the Rudolf Wolff Income Fund GBP Dividend Reinvestment B Shares. As can be seen all oil related stocks have been extraordinarily depressed in the current price environment and given the Fund's slight over-weighting in that sector, this has held back the recovery of the fund versus broader equities. However, we believe these prices do not represent the very low default risk present and instead show the considerable potential for uplift in the coming months.

As at 30 November 2023 data quoted represents past performance and does not guarantee future results. The investment return and principal value of an investment will fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Current performance of the Fund may be lower or higher than the performance quoted. Data for the Fund shown are Net of Charges 01/10/19 to 30/11/23.

Portfolio Strategy

Invest in a weighted portfolio of income bearing financial instruments, preference shares and debt instruments issued by bank's, building societies and insurance/assurance groups, as well as general corporate debt. The Funds Bond strategy is designed to produce an attractive rate of income whilst maintaining the underlying asset value of investment. It may possibly suit those of your clients who are looking for higher returns than currently being offered by standard bank or building society deposit accounts. The income is distributed bi-annually, at the end of March and September. Investors may elect to have the income reinvested. The Fund does not at present utilise any leverage but may use limited leverage in the future. Currently approximately 69% of the Funds bond portfolio is in GBP issues, 28% in USD, and 3% in SEK.

Fund Commentary

November was one of those big risk-on months where nearly all asset classes rose very strongly. The S&P, for example, was up almost 9%, albeit against the backdrop of a much weaker US$. Such market exuberance is perhaps best characterised by the meteoric rise in 2023 of Cryptocurrencies. Bitcoin rose by 24% during November alone. In the commodity space Crude has been conspicuously subdued, as Saudi Arabia continues to press for longer-term production cuts to keep prices up as global economic activity slows. Investors are largely ignoring Central Bank warnings about persistent inflation and the need for interest rates to be higher for longer. The 10yr Gilt was the subject of an extraordinary 30bp rally during the month, a rally which has extended by a further 20bps in the first few days of December. Only time will tell whether the bulls are right (we would treat this rally with caution as it feels like a bit of a short squeeze), but all fixed income assets have rallied, following the lead of Govt bonds.
